Subj: CTISS Contacts in Aust

Dera fellow directors,

CTISS Contacts in Australia

Whilst in the UK recently, I visited the Computers in Teaching Initiative Support Service (CTISS) at Oxford. I was surprised to find how many other people in Australia have made some contact with this service, and I copied down the names on their mailing lists, as shown below. I thought that there may be some value in finding out if there was any interest in joint support for any national coordinating or assisting or information dissemination unit (like CTISS) in Australia, or of any other means of cooperation and information sharing.

I provide this list now to all Directors of IT in Aust and NZ (I didn't record NZ names, but there were some), with a view to you all taking the initiative to contact the person(s) at your Uni, so that at least you may be apprised of what's going on at your site. If there is any indication of interest in perhaps trying to put together a bid for funds for some Australian initiative, from you or from these people that you contact, then I would be willing to try to prepare some form of proposal, for comment by you and these people.

Any general comments?

Alex.

These are the names of all Australian contacts on CTISS mailing lists, as at 18/9/92. It includes people who subscribe to the CTISS service, those who are just on the CTISS File mailing list (like me), and others who have had more than passing contact with CTISS. I copied them down long-hand, so some errors may have crept in through that process of transcription.

Note that some names and addresses are out of date; I have made no attempt to update them.
